

2019 “Lowest Cost Bronze Plan” Costs

Under District and federal law, most District residents are required to maintain a minimum level of health coverage. This requirement is known as the individual mandate. If you don’t have health coverage that meets the individual mandate requirements, you’ll have to pay a penalty or receive an exemption. The federal tax penalty is in effect for tax years prior to 2019 and the District tax penalty starts with tax years 2019 and beyond.

One of the exemptions from the individual mandate requirement is based on coverage being unaffordable. To assist in figuring out if you are eligible for this exemption, below are the costs of the Lowest Cost Bronze Plan in DC Health Link, the Insurance Marketplace in the District of Columbia for 2019. Plan costs vary based on the age of each enrollee at the time you would have enrolled. For example, if you wanted to know what coverage would have cost you if you first enrolled in April of 2019, and you were 44 at that time, the premium would be $368.3/month. The premium stays the same the whole year based on the age you were when you first enroll for the year. However, if you turned 45 in May, and your coverage started after you turned 45, your premium would be $382.55/month
